"The Gold Standard for Oil & Gas Investing"

UPDATE!

#3

Goldstone-Johnson #4

Even as the price of oil took another hit today, the crew onsite at the Goldstone-Johnson #4 has been hard at work preparing for drilling later this week.

The rigging is up and the oil derrick has been raised. The top drive is in route to the location and they are picking up the pipes for the casing scraper late this evening. Over the next few days drilling will commence and we expect to see oil and gas shows by Monday of next week. Below are pictures of the current activity and as you can see, progress is happening rapidly. I'll continue to keep you informed of any new developments and we are all getting very excited as the site continues to take shape. Best regards,

Parker Hallam
COO-Goldstone Energy.

Why Invest in Oil & Gas Royalties?

Royalty interests are as old as oil and gas exploration and are essentially rental payments, paid as a percentage of production, by oil and gas producers such as Exxon, Shell, and Chesapeake to royalty owners. Royalty owners also enjoy payments for new production from any additional wells drilled and completed on their property while not being responsible for costs or risks associated with monthly upkeep, exploration or development on their property. Instead, royalty owners simply receive their monthly percentage share from currently producing wells.
